The book presents the scientific and practical foundations of the economic policy of the country, which faces deep crisis phenomena and mobilizes resources to overcome them. Systemic proposals for the transformation of the Ukrainian economy are based on the analysis of key theories and economic growth models, the practice of strategy implementation in developing and transition countries, as well as an audit of Ukrainian economic policy since the early 1990s. Yaroslav Romanchuk proposes his innovative model of economic development for Ukraine. It is based on the entrepreneurial growth theory (Austrian economic school), conclusions of numerous scientific researches and empirical data accumulated over 30 years on such phenomena as «economic freedom», «private property», «competitiveness» and «social progress». The practical implementation of this model will allow Ukraine to join the prestigious club of countries with GDP of over one trillion dollars, becoming a powerful engine of development and growth in Europe.
